

Cottonwood Canyons Foundation - Internship and Volunteer Opportunities
Winter Snowshoe Field Trips – Winter 2014-2015

The Cottonwood Canyons Foundation is actively seeking interns to help guide snowshoe nature tours for kids in Big Cottonwood Canyon on weekdays. Field trips educate fourth-grade students on the natural environment of the canyons. Field trips run Tuesdays through Fridays, from January 6th through the end of March. Interns should be able to commit to at least one or two days a week, if possible. Guides meet at 9:30 am and field trips are usually completed by noon on days they are held, so the time commitment is approximately 9:30 am-12:00 pm, plus travel time up the canyons.

Some weekend programs are also available.

Please call (801) 466-6411 or email plic@xmission.com

This opportunity provides extensive training and education and is ideal for gaining experience and learning about the environment of the Wasatch Mountains in an ideal outdoor setting! It is a unique opportunity for students interested in environmental studies or environmental education, but is open to all. No experience necessary.

Students should have their own snowshoes. Please join us!

Details: Unpaid Internship or volunteer opportunity.

Trainings begin in November and December, but alternative trainings available if necessary.

On-snow training session in late December or early January.
